The poetry of this remarkable woman spans her life, beginning as a teenager, continuing through her adulthood and old age. She has filled the poems with thoughtful insights of life s situations, as well as memories, both poignant and happy. These poems cover a broad range from serious and contemplative to humorous and fanciful. The reader will easily empathize with her expressions of love, patience, and thought provoking commentary. Finely tuned to the momentum and equilibrium of life, these poems are an adventure. About the author: Ellen Schuster was born December 2, 1912, in Kidder, South Dakota, joining a family of two sisters and six brothers. After her marriage to Frank Schuster in 1934; 1939 found mom driving this man, who was seriously ill with tuberculosis, from Bisbee, North Dakota, to Tucson, Arizona, in a 1937 Ford, with her husband in a trailer. She changed nine tires along the way. Her husband slowly healed in the warm, dry air of the desert without medication; since medication was not available at that time. There they raised two daughters and gradually worked their way up financially to a pleasant life and spacious home. Ellen Schuster passed away in a nursing home September 13, 2011. Her sweetness and keen intellect were her enduring assets.
